

Getting to Leuven

Leuven is a historical University town in the centre of Belgium, in the Dutch speaking part of the country. Leuven can be easily reached by car, plane and/or public transport. You will find more information about Leuven here: <http://www.leuven.be/en/tourism/>

The conference is taking place in Group T Leuven Campus (KU Leuven) which is in the heart of the city at:

📍 Andreas Vesaliusstraat 13, 3000 Leuven

Getting to Group T in Leuven by car

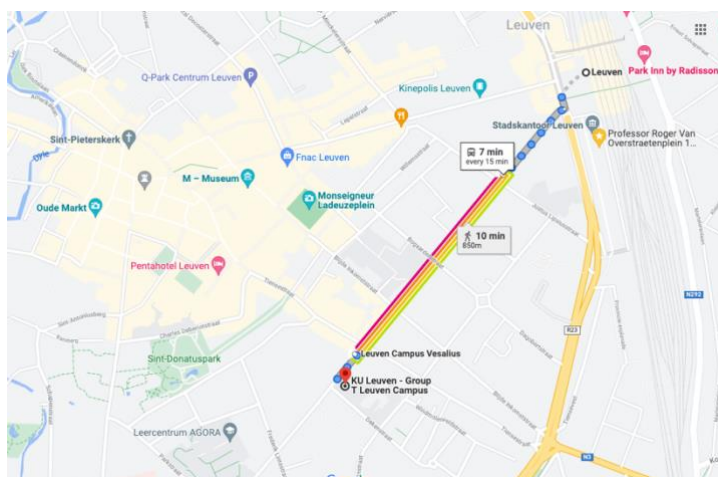

Leuven discourages car traffic in the city center so we advise you to leave your car in your hotel parking lot or in the closest parking to Group T, which is Parking Ladeuze - MyPark at Monseigneur Ladeuzeplein, you will find more information about this parking garage here.

Getting to Group T in Leuven by public transport

Leuven is served by a regular and well-served train and bus service. Regular trains run every 20 minutes to and from Brussels (all stations) and from the Brussels International Airport (Zaventem).

Local bus services go between the bus terminal at the Leuven train station and Group T regularly, the journey takes about 7 minutes, look out for the No. 1,4,5 or 6 bus line.

If you prefer to walk from the train station to Group T, it is about 850 m and will take about 10 minutes. This map shows bus and walking routes.

Getting to Leuven by plane

Two Belgian airports may be served from your location, we recommend you to select as your destination Brussels International Airport in Zaventem if your flight schedule allows. The airport train station is located below the terminal (basement level -1). There are regular direct trains to Leuven and the journey will take you less than 15 minutes. Trains go very frequently between 05:10 and 00:47. For train schedule and ticket sales online, see <http://www.belgianrail.be/jp/sncb-nmbs-routeplanner/query.exe/en>

Then there is also Brussels South International Airport in Charleroi which serves low fare airlines (Ryan Air, Wizz Air...) This airport is a long way out of Brussels and even further away from Leuven. If
