Getting to Leuven

Leuven is a historical University town in the centre of Belgium, in the Dutch speaking part of the country. Leuven can be easily reached by car, plane and/or public transport. You will find more information about Leuven here: http://www.leuven.be/en/tourism/

The conference is taking place in STUK - House for Dance, Image & Sound which is located in the heart of the city at:
Naamsestraat 96
3000 Leuven
Belgium

Getting to STUK in Leuven by car

Leuven is on the crossroads between the E40 motorway from Gent and Brussels to Liège and the E314/A2 motorway from Leuven to Genk and Heerlen. On the E314/A2 take exit nr. 18 (Herent) and travel in towards the city till you reach the ring around Leuven and take a left onto the ring. At the next major junction, turn in towards Leuven at Naamespoort and take the Naamsestraat, you will find STUK on the left hand side of this road after about ,5kms. The closest parking to STUK is Q Park at Naamsestraat 102, you will find more information about this parking garage here: https://www.q-park.be/nl/parkeren-bij-q-park/parkings-per-stad/leuven/heilig-hart
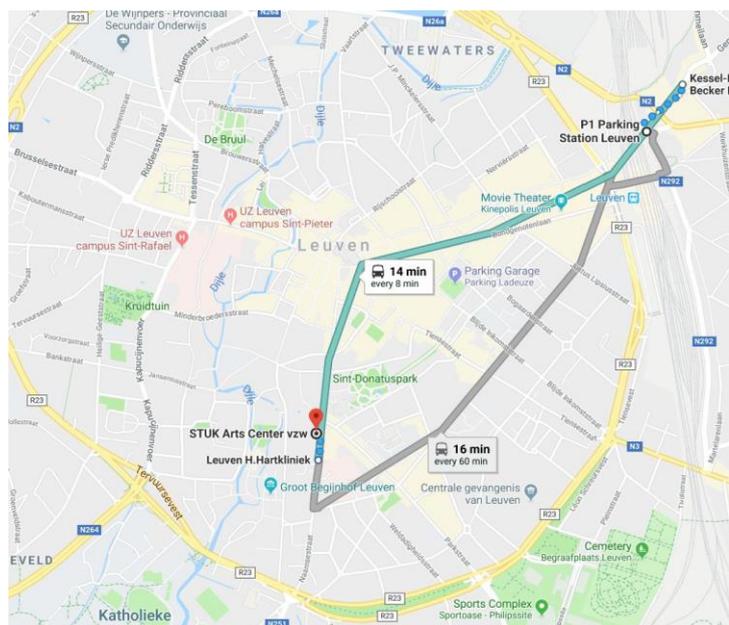

Getting to STUK in Leuven by public transport

Leuven is served by a regular and well-served train and bus service. Regular trains run every 20 minutes to and from Brussels (all stations) and from the Brussels International Airport (Zaventem).

Local bus services go between the bus terminal at the Leuven train station and STUK regularly, the journey takes about 14 minutes, look out for the No. 2 bus line.

If you refer to walk from the train station to STUK, the walk will take you through the centre of Leuven, is about 2 kms and will take about 25 minutes. This map shows bus and walking routes.

Getting to Leuven by plane

Two Belgian airports may be served from your location, we recommend you to select as your destination

Brussels International Airport in Zaventem if your flight schedule allows. The airport train station is located below the terminal (basement level -1). There are regular direct trains to Leuven and the journey will take you less than 15 minutes. Trains go very frequently between 05:10 and 00:47. For train schedule and ticket sales online, see http://www.belgianrail.be/jp/sncb-nmbs-routeplanner/query.exe/en

Then there is also Brussels South International Airport in Charleroi which serves low fare airlines (Ryan Air, Wizz Air...) This airport is a long way out of Brussels and even further away from Leuven. If you happen to be arriving here, see https://www.brussels-charleroi-airport.com/en/parking-access#shuttle for the shuttle service to various cities including Brussels from where you will need to take a train to Leuven, this is the quickest way to Leuven from this airport..
