

This blog post is based on a chapter in a forthcoming book: Forsyth, R., Hamshire, C., Olumu, K., & King, E. (2025). The impact of AI on inclusive learning communities. In Handbook of Artificial Intelligence in Higher Education: Edward Elgar Publishing.

References (also supplied in a separate PDF as requested)

Davis, M. (2024). Supporting inclusion in academic integrity in the age of GenAI. In Using Generative AI Effectively in Higher Education (pp. 21–29): Routledge.

Fletcher, R., Chen, E., He, Y., & Vinton, G. (2024). How is GenAI used by dyslexic, neurodivergent and disabled students in higher education? Retrieved from Nottingham: https://irep.ntu.ac.uk/id/eprint/52965/1/2365965_He.pdf

Hamshire, C., & Forsyth, R. (2025). Facilitating conversations about race: staff views on the importance of accountability and trust in a student-led project. International Journal for Academic Development, 30(1), 82–94. doi:10.1080/1360144X.2024.2349929

Hamshire, C., Gamote, S., Norman, P., Forsyth, R., & McCabe, O. (2023). Working towards the inclusive campus: a partnership project with students of colour in a university reform initiative. In J. Conner, L. Gauthier, C. G. Valenzuela, & R. Raaper (Eds.), The Bloomsbury Handbook of Student Voice in Higher Education (pp. 163–178). London: Bloomsbury.